The only possible place in the territory to establish penal colonies are the Alcutian Islands and they are too valuable for fishing colonies to be used as a stamping ground for convicts." Regarding the future development of the territory, Dr. Yeamans says: "The present governor, Hon. A. P. Swineford of Michigan has done all he could to improve the condition of things in the territory, but unfortunately congress did not see fit to grant h's requests. Alaska, of all the territories, is alone denied representation in congress, and what is worse, there is practically no civil law there. The United States land laws do not apply there, and there is but one way of obtaining valid title to property and that is by purchasing from some one who holds a good Russian title. To obtain government lands there is but one way, and that is under the mining laws which give a possessory title only, the holder only retaining title as long as he does a certain amount of work on the claim. An Important Decision.

Three years ago an old soldier named Smith took up a homestead of 160 acres in Measurinee county. At the end of two and a half years he proved the title to the property, deducting one year served in the army. The next winter he sold 98,000 feet of pine logs from the land, and the money came to him through the hands of a prominent Menominee lumberman, who, however, was not the purchaser. Later on it was discovered that Smith had not iived on the homestead long enough to make valid his claim, and a suit was instituted by the government, not against emith, but against the lumberman who did not buy the logs. The jury in the district court at Mar justic bave rendered verdict for the government of $821.12. The case involves an important legal principle and is the first of the kind in the northwest. Judge Severens presided.

Parsons' Brother Speaks.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, who was a promi nent cavalry officer in the confederate army, and now a re pected citizen of Norfolk, Va., says that his brother, the con-demned anarchist at Chicago, is a philoophical anarchi t, who always claimed that a change in the social system must be brought about before men of wealth would cea e to oppress the poor. He therefore predicted revolution, but did not counsel it. Gen. Parsons is convinced that his brother was sincere and peaceable. He believes there were errors in the trial and that an appeal to the United States supreme court can be had. He believes the real instigators of the bomb throwers were New York stock speculators, who by that means broke up the eight-hour movement, and by that means advanced railroad stock. The mys-terious stranger who exhibited the satchet at Indianapolis just before the explosion, saying it contained something that would be heard in Chicago in a few days, wa., Gen. Parsons suspects, an agent of the stock jobbers. He quotes from financial articles about that time to show something of the kind was expected.

A Rich Haul. The through express train from San Francisco on the Teras & Pacific road was boarded by train robbers at Benbrook. Texas, the other night, and the express and the mail car robbed of $30,000 worth of packages and letters. The passengers were not molested. The robbers escaped, leaving no clue. Two of the men mount ed the cab as the engine pulled out of Benbrook, a small station twelve miles west of Fort Worth. They compelled the engineer to run the train to a high trestle the same on which a train was robbed last June. They stopped the train so that the passenger cars, in which were the guards, were over the trestle. Two other robbers then boarded the express car, after firing several shots into it and compelling Mes-senger Moloney to open the door. They cleared out the safe and then went through the mail car and took every registered let ter. Griffith, the mall messenger, made no resistance.
